NUMBER 164

Can anyone tell the whereabouts of the Democrat party in Maine?

The hard-money Democrats haven't got the courage to crow over the election of the Greenback Governor in Maine.

The sensible Democrats of Maine will probably appreciate the saying of Garfield that "a pound of pluck is worth a ton of luck."

The estimated value of the tobacco crop of Rock county is 1,500,000 dollars. This may be too high by much if it is not curing well in the sheds.

The Democrats appear to think that a Greenback Governor is of more importance to them than a Republican United States Senator is to the Republicans.

There is nothing funnier in politics than a Rock county Democratic convention. They go about their business in the most unassuming manner possible, and always produce something to make the spectators laugh. As a good piece of comedy, there is hardly anything like it.

The Greenbackers and Democrats in Illinois are quarrelling as to who should claim the victory in Maine. Inasmuch as the Greenbackers swallowed the Democrats, and the latter were not in condition to elect a single man, it is not a difficult matter to decide how much crowing they should do.

The Appleton Post publishing company have commenced the publication of a daily, with Mr. Aleck Reid as editor. The numbers thus far issued are good ones, and give strong indications of industry, ability, and prosperity. It is worthy of support by the Republicans of Appleton. They should see to it that it is properly maintained.

It was a losing game for the Sage of Gramercy Park to send $10,000 to the Portland district to defeat Thomas B. Reed for Congress. Reed cross-examined Tilden in the cipher investigation, and Mr. Tilden will never forget it and never condone the severe pushing Reed gave him. Tilden is out $10,000 and Reed is returned to Congress.

There will be a Democratic funeral in Maine, today.—Janesville Gazette. Yes, large funeral, very large funeral, lots of mourners and all Republicans.—Nation's Democrat.

They laugh best who laugh last. And by the way, where is the Democratic party in Maine? Buried out of sight. The Republicans elect three Congressmen out of five and have a large majority in the Legislature, thus securing a United States Senate. The Greenbackers may have the Governor, but what have the Democrats got. Not a smell of an office.

The Democrats are like the old man in the back woods, who, when he saw a bear enter the cabin, crawled under the bed for safety, while his wife took the heavy poker and with a steady and sure blow in the head, felled the animal to the floor. When the old man saw the animal laid out he came from his hiding place, and with a victorious air exclaimed: "Well, well killed him, ain't well?" They sneak into the Greenback party in Maine, not having courage to meet the Republicans in a square fight, and when there is a probability that the Republican candidate for Governor is defeated, they exclaim, "Well, well whipped them, ain't well?"

It is said that the cotton crop of 1880 will be the largest ever known in this country, and amounts to over 5,757,397 bales, which was the product of 1879. The largest crop before the war was said to be 5,000,000 bales. It is a little remarkable that in the section of country which grows the cotton only 179,000 bales will be used by the spinners, while the North, against which the South is solid in hostility, will consume in its mills, 1,624,805 bales. The balance of the immense crop will be exported. The total value of the cotton crop of this year is put at 212 million dollars, while the total value of the wheat and flour exported for the past year was a little over 225 million dollars, so that cotton is no longer king.

General Hancock was made a Democratic candidate for the Presidency because he would not and did not support, nor lobby about the reconstruction measures of Congress. He has no other title to the support of any political party than this. But he was set up to catch the votes of Northern and loyal men. He was a soldier and therefore it was hoped he would catch the votes of Republicans. It will be remembered that the Democrats tried General McClellan in 1864, simply because he was a soldier, and was not in accord with the administration in putting down the rebellion. But the scheme ignominiously failed, and in Hancock's case the Democrats hoped the Northern voters had forgotten all about that, and were in a condition to be cheated.

There is nothing that should so humiliate the Hancock party as their crazy denunciation in their platform of the resumption act, and their foolish opposition to all measures that were inaugurated by the Republicans for the purpose of strengthening the public credit and making the currency honest and substantial. They have resolved time and time again in their platform that resumption was a fair and honest money cheat. But now they see they have become badly mixed on their resolutions as well as loose in their speeches. It has come to this that the Democrats would do better if they would not trust themselves on resolutions. They pretty nearly learned a lesson of silence in Congress during the last session, and now they want to learn how to get along without resolutions and they will be all right. Some time last spring "Tom" Nailer, chairman of the Connecticut Democratic convention, marked out a line of safety for the Democrats, when he said in open convention, "What do we want of resolutions anyhow?" and therefore moved the indefinite postponement of the whole batch of them, and before the convention could take breath, he put the motion, declared it carried, and adjourned the body. The Democrats would have been better off if they had never put their opinions in the shape of a resolution. The managers of the party should say to its conventions what the Irish judge once said to the prisoner at the bar: "We want nothing from you but silence, and blessed little of that."

Other Interesting State and Miscellaneous News Items.

THE LATEST.

The Republicans Now Claim Five Hundred Majority for Davis.

Special to the Gazette. AUGUSTA, Sept. 16.—Five hundred and nineteen towns, part official, give Davis 70,965; Plaised 69,037; scattering 429. There are eighty-one towns yet to hear from. If they vote as last year they will give Davis 166 majority. The Republicans, however, claim they will have gains and make his majority nearly 500. The Constitutional amendments have been carried.

FOR CONTEMPT.

Special to the Gazette. CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—The Mayor, Superintendent of Police, Commissioner of Public Works, and Superintendent of Streets have been ordered to appear on Saturday to answer to the charge of contempt in connection with the railroad riots.

VICTORY.

The Complete Returns Give Davis 50 Majority in Maine.

New York, Sept. 16.—1 a. m.—Dispatches just received say that the Republicans in Maine now have full returns, showing the election of Davis, for Governor, by a majority of 50 votes. There is great rejoicing in Portland.

VERY CLOSE.

PORTLAND, Sept. 15.—Four hundred and five towns give Davis 69,912; Plaised, 68,571; scattering, 323. Davis' plurality, 1,341. The same towns last year gave Davis 66,103; Smith, 45,619; Garcelon 19,806; scattering, 202.

Ninety-eight towns to hear from gave last year, Davis, 3,010; Fusion, 4,389; Fusion plurality, 1,379. Deduct Davis' plurality now, and Plaised is left 38 plurality.

The Senate, at the last accounts, stands: Republican, 22; Fusionists, 9. House: Republicans, 82; and Fusionists, 67.

Complete returns from the First district insure Reed's election by about 100 majority.

The constitutional amendments are probably carried.

THE PRESIDENTIAL PARTY.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 15.—The President and party left to-day for Monterey, via San Jose. On their arrival at the depot by Mayor Murphy with a short address of welcome, introduced to the ladies in carriages, and proceeded to the Court House, where the school children were stationed to welcome him. The children cheered the President as the procession passed. On arriving at the Anzeris House, the Mayor introduced President Hayes to the crowd below from the balcony. The President made a short speech, he also did Secretary Ramsey and General Sherman. Mrs. Hayes was also introduced to the people, and bowed her acknowledgments to the cheers which greeted her. A brief reception was held in the parlors of the hotel, and the procession then reformed and marched through the principal streets to Santa Clara, returning in time to take the train for Monterey.

OBITUARY.

ELKHORN, Sept. 15.—Mr. William Ward, a nephew and prominent citizen of Waterville, died this morning at Springfield, this state. He was 31 years of age.

BOUNCED HIM.

BUFFALO, Sept. 15.—E. P. Adams, of Dunkirk, has been deposed from the ministry of the Presbyterian church by the presbytery of Buffalo for heresy in preaching against the doctrine of eternal punishment.

TWENTY THOUSAND.

ATLINGTON, Sept. 15.—A heavy fire occurred at Seymour, a town on the line of the Green Bay & Minnesota Railway, last night. Twelve buildings on the east side of the main street were burned. The loss is estimated at about $20,000. The insurance is unknown.

NOMINATIONS.

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 15.—The Democrats of the Eighth Wisconsin district today nominated W. C. Silvert, of Wausau, for Congress.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 15.—The Democrats of the Third district have nominated Hon. M. M. Cuthren for Congress.

A MILWAUKEE MOB.

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 15.—A mob of several hundred men and boys attacked the old skating rink here, last night, and tore it down, carrying away the timber. The ground on which the structure stood is wanted for the new exposition building, but the lessee refused to come to terms. The police made no attempt to check the mob.

OHIO MURDERS.

COLUMBUS, Sept. 15.—Governor Foster has refused to interfere in the case of Mitchell, the wife murderer, under a sentence to be hanged at Troy, O., next Friday.

A chain of circumstantial evidence seems to point to William Peel, now under arrest, as the murderer of Mrs. Chance, whose dead body was found near this city some time ago.

ABANDONED HIS FAST.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—Livingstone, the Brooklyn faster, who to-day entered upon the ninth day of his attempt to emulate Tanner, was secured nearly to death to-night by the report that his wife had committed suicide on account of his persistent determination to go on with his fast. The woman was found in bed with some rat poison by her side, but it turned out to be only a ruse to get Livingstone home. He has relinquished his fast.

BASE BALL.

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—The victory of the Chicago team yesterday at Cincinnati, together with the defeat of the Providence at Boston, settles irrevocably the League championship contest of 1880. Chicago has won fifty-nine games, while Providence, its next nearest competitor, has won forty-five. Providence, having thirteen games yet to play to complete the schedule, could win but fifty-eight if it won all of these games, so that Chicago, even though it should lose all the ten games it has yet to play, would still have the championship pennant beyond peradventure.

A SEVERE SENTENCE.

Thirty Lashes and Twenty Years Penal Servitude.

LONDON, Sept. 15.—Henry Perry, who was some time ago convicted of robbery and outrage on a bank messenger on the Underground railway, was to-day brought before the central criminal court and sentenced to thirty lashes with the cat-o-nine-tails and a penal servitude of twenty years. On receiving his sentence the prisoner screamed aloud in agony and fear. In concluding that part of the sentence imposing punishment with the lash, the judge said: "I sentence you to receive this form of punishment before your long term of imprisonment begins, in order that, coward as you are, you may feel the pain and know what it means."

AN ANGRY PARENT.

RACINE, Sept. 15.—Mr. James Parks and Miss Josie Smith were married this afternoon at 2 o'clock, by the Rev. Mr. Hinkley at his residence. The marriage was contracted without the consent of Mr. Peter Smith, the father of the bride, and he having gained knowledge of it, swore vengeance upon Mr. Parks. Having learned that the couple would leave on the afternoon boat, Mr. Smith became frantic with rage, and aiming himself with a huge rock started for the boat landing, asserting that he would kill his newly made son-in-law. It having become noised about the streets a large crowd followed Mr. Smith to the landing. After waiting a short time the happy couple were driven down in their carriage, all unconscious of the reception which it was evident they would receive. As the groom alighted from the carriage, Mr. Smith rushed at him with the rock which he held in his hand, and was only prevented from doing him injury by the bystanders, who seized the irate father-in-law and took the weapons from him. An officer arrived and Mr. Smith left and went up town. The couple left on the boat without further molestation, for Milwaukee.

THE ROCKFORD FAIR.

ROCKFORD, Sept. 15.—The county exposition opened to-day under very inclement circumstances. About eight o'clock it began to rain and the water fell in torrents till noon, with no sign of cessation. At 10 o'clock the common council, a committee from the agricultural board, the Rifles, and the Forest City band, all dripping and miserable, awaited the arrival of General Grant from Galena. There were also a goodly crowd of shivering and soaked non-officials. As the train pulled in, the band cuddled up under the drippings of the freight depot, thawed out their instruments, and rendered some sorrowful music. The procession then meandered slowly to the residence of W. A. Talcott, where all alighted, and were presented to the general.

In the afternoon the weather cleared and enabled the party to appear at the Fair Grounds, where General Grant was introduced, and made his usual brief speech. Governor Collum gave an address. This evening a public reception was given General Grant at the residence of W. A. Talcott, extending from 9 to 11 o'clock, when a large number of Rockford citizens waited upon the distinguished visitors while the band played from the porch.

Yes, music hath power Over the wide wide

A power that is deep, and endearing. But music now has no power on me, For I'm very fond of hearing. The very best way your hearing to get back, To effect a radical cure, Is to go to your druggist without any delay. And Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil to procure.

French Marriages.

"FIGURES," said the late Sir Robert Peel; "you can prove any thing by figures." M. Legrand, accordingly, has no difficulty in proving that marriage in France is not altogether as it should be; had it been so his work, Le Mariage et les Mœurs en France, would never have been written. Things can not be quite as bad when the "Academy of Moral and Political Sciences" offers a prize for the best essay on "Matrimony, and how to improve the conditions, moral, social and legal, under which it is entered on." Ten years ago M. Legrand got this prize, and he kept his essay until now, publishing it in a much enlarged form, and bringing his statistics, etc., up to the present date. It is, therefore, a quasi-official; for the Academy of Moral and Political Sciences stands on a different footing from our Social Science Congress. Some of his figures are startling, and we have not our own Registrar-General's tables at hand whereby to check them; but of course they have been checked by those who "crowded" his essay.

The fact which makes thoughtful Frenchmen anxious is that, while the marriage rate is not lower, nay, is even slightly higher than it was, the birth rate is alarmingly low, and gets lower, instead of rising. There were actually more births at the beginning of the century, with a population of only 27,700,000, than there were in 1860. Between 1800 and 1815 the number of children per marriage averaged 4.21. It sank gradually till 1860, averaging only 3.03 for the years between 1805 and 1860; between 1860 and 1865 it rose to 3.08. Tantalizing, as, indeed, such tables generally are, this particular table ends with 1865, and we are left to M. Legrand's assertion that the decrease is still a sad fact, and to another table which shows that the birth for every hundred inhabitants have averaged during the last forty years 2.62. The worst year was 1871, when, owing to the war, the average sank to 2.26. In 1872 it rose to its highest, 2.67. In 1877 it was 2.65, the same as in 1850.

Of marriages the French average for the last ten years is 88 for every hundred inhabitants. It was 60 in 1870, 72 in 1871, 93 (its highest) in 1872, when the war and its results were well-nigh over. As with us, the matrimonial barometer is, from year to year, a delicate test of the national prosperity or depression. There is no complaint, however, of the small number of marriages; it has risen since 1860, between which year and 1870 the average was not quite 79. Nor does France in this respect stand badly as compared with other countries. There are actually more marriages per cent. in France than in England. M. Legrand's table (undated) gives as follows: In Hungary, 1.08 marriages for every 100 inhabitants; in Russia, 1.00; Germany, .97; Austria, .90; France, .88; England, .86; Holland, .83; Italy, .73; Sweden, .70; Greece, .68; Roumania, .66; Ireland, .47. So that there are twice as many marriages in France, for the population, as in Ireland, which we used to look on as the most marrying country in Europe.—London Echo.

SEVEN women and one man, constituting the pioneer band of "The Salvation Army," dressed in a uniform of dark blue with yellow binding, and broad scarlet ribbons around their hats, arrived in New York the other day. The Captain, a woman, carries a blue and red flag with a yellow sun in the center. The order was organized fourteen years ago in England by William Booth, a dissenting clergyman, and numbers 100,000 members. It preaches in theaters and other buildings and in the streets. Its open-air audiences, as it claims, amount to 2,000,000 persons weekly. Their hymns in this country are set to American tunes, like "Way Down on the Suwanee River" and "Old Kentucky Home." They begin work in this country at once.

PARAGRAPHS.

"The darky's hour is just before the dawn," remarked Sambo, when he started out before daybreak to steal a young chicken.

They let dogs play with human bones in the by-streets of St. Louis, but of course not until after it is known that they are the bones of some man from Chicago.—Detroit Free Press.

"That's what I call a finished sermon," said a lady to her husband, as they wended their way from church. "Yes," was the reply; "but, do you know, I thought it never would be."

James Dodge kept a grocery in a Pennsylvania town twenty-five years and never once put a line in the local papers regarding his business. He said he did not propose to give people call him an advertising Dodge.—Home Sentinel.

An exchange refers to the language of the postage stamp. But we do not think the postage stamp has any language that expresses any thing. If it had, we believe it would holler "enough" when it is licked.—Keokuk Gale City.

This Cincinnati criticism on "The Pirates of Penzance" will be appreciated by those who have seen the piece, and remembered by those who are yet to see it. "The thin pirate with a terrific mustache had his right calf on wrong side out."

They were sitting together Sunday evening, with an album or two between them, when she pleasantly asked, "How would you like to have my mother live with you?" In just fifteen seconds he had his hat down half way over his face, and was bolting through the gate.—Danbury News.

A Vermont man who tried to walk on snow-shoes contrived to get the barn-door off its hinges, tear down three rods of fence and get stuck, head down, in a drift, before his wife could find breath to tell him that he was a great awkward lout. Snow shoes are not such easy things to handle.

When a Massachusetts woman wants to know which lodge her husband attended on a given night, she goes on a round of charity calls until she finds the hat that he exchanged for a much poorer one, hanging in a hallway. Then there is the warmth of a summer day, and he has to endure it.

Another mock marriage has proved disastrous. A young man and a woman at Fall River were married for fun by a friend. The friend was a young lawyer, and after the ceremony was over remembered that he was a Justice of the Peace, and that the marriage was binding. The youthful Justice was told that he was liable to State-prison for performing a bogus marriage ceremony. Accordingly he decided to legalize it, and he published the wedding notice in due form, made out a certificate, etc., and that was the first intimation the bride and groom had of their union. Neither of them desired the other, and they are much distressed.

If there's a man from head to foot a mass of putrifying sores, Teeth ulcerated black as soot, with limps, running oozing out at every pore, Death would be better if he could not get Spring Blossom, the best remedy there is yet.

A Story of the Commune.

After the taking of Paris by the Versailles troops a Communist officer managed to escape from the burning city. Having remained on the barricades to the last he had no time to change his clothes and was consequently obliged to wander about the whole day in kipi and regimentals, with his sword dangling by his side. Toward evening, however, he fell in with a shepherd, good-natured almost to idleness, and knowing nothing whatever of politics. The two men entered into conversation and at the end of half an hour the refugee, incessantly haunted by the fear of seeing the gendarmes make their appearance, proposed an exchange of costume to the "yokel."

Naturally dazzled by the splendor of the other's military garb, the countryman jumped at the offer, never dreaming of the danger he incurred in donning his companion's attire.

The exchange was carried out. The two men undressed, redressed and parted. The pseudo-shepherd made for Paris, wearing a blouse, canvas trousers and a straw hat. The real Simon Pure, on the other hand, calmly went on minding his sheep, presenting a rather incongruous aspect with the sword hanging by his side and the crook in his hand.

What might have been naturally expected to happen actually occurred. A patrol came across the unlucky shepherd and asked him for explanations about his costume, and these not being deemed altogether satisfactory, the countryman was taken into custody, and ultimately led off to Satory to go before a court-martial there.

The unfortunate wretch, who had no one to speak a word for him, either did not know, or was so dazed that he could not remember his birthplace, and, in the end, was sentenced to transportation to the Ile des Pins. Amiot, as the man is named, was accordingly sent, and by August, 1873, he had not been pardoned. One of his fellow-convicts lately wrote to say that "Amiot was awaiting the termination of a punishment which he did not understand, and was expecting a crime which he had had no thought of committing." Unluckily, he was condemned for life, and whether he was pardoned or not we are ignorant.

He may possibly be considered a dangerous character. Perhaps his very imbecility is taken for dissimulation. Be this as it may, his story, while it has, undoubtedly, a ludicrous side, is at the bottom horribly sad and grave, and appears to us calculated to cause reflection to those who insist on the justice of repression and the necessity for refusing an amnesty.—Paris Ruyard.

THE MACERATOR.

The Aged Greenback Destroyer of the United States Treasury.

EVERY afternoon at four o'clock seventy-five female scrubbers and sweepers are let loose on the halls and rooms of the Treasury building. Prior to this charge of the broom brigade, they were massed in one of the lower halls with their brooms, buckets, brushes, squiggles and swabs. They are of many colors and nationalities. Their pay is fifteen dollars per month, and occasionally among them may be found women who once came to Washington in quest of positions more lucrative. But bread is not so easy to come by in Washington as elsewhere, and scrubbing is better than starvation.

In company with the matron, Mrs. Seidmore, I reviewed the broom brigade the other day in the basement after the hours allotted to Treasury visitors. Seventy-five dusters and sweepers seem an imposing number, but when scattered about the halls of the vast building at their work their few, and far between. The waste paper collected is sorted and placed in three bins, for there are grades even in waste paper. Going to the top floor I found myself in lanes, passages, hallways and byways of Treasury accounts, ledgers, records, big books, little books and millions of packages in millions of pigeon holes, all red taped and tagged. It's frightful to contemplate this avalanche of financial reckoning from all the States embracing Customs, Army and Navy affairs, and all other business since our Government saw the light. There isn't room for it. Piles of accounts and well-worn ledgers encumber the landings and hallways. From the Treasury garret I was taken once more to the Treasury cellar. Here are the carpenters' and blacksmiths' shops, for the Treasury makes all its own desks and pigeon holes, and paints and varnishes them. But the chief anxiety was to show me the "macerator."

The macerator was at work. The macerator is the mill wherein is ground to a soft, nasty pulp the called-in and condemned greenbacks. It grinds to utter paste and impossibility of recognition from $100,000 to $500,000 daily. It has a ten-horse power engine all to itself, and grinds about two hours daily. The money goes into a huge, round cauldron-like hopper into which open three small dials secured by three separate locks. The obsequies of the condemned greenbacks are daily observed with rigid and precise formality. Three separate United States Treasury officials, men of known trust, probity and honor, "highly respected by all who know them," carry the condemned bills to the sacrificial hopper, unlock the sacred doors, chuck them in, lock them up and carefully watch each other to see that none of this Government paper sticks to their clothing or to the car on their heels. Then hot water is let on, and the cog of the Government coffee-mill rend the tens, hundreds and thousand dollar notes to atoms. You may look through a little window in the top of the hopper and see this process of liquidation going on. The engineer scooped up a handful of the ground-up currency from a mass and put it near my nose and eyes for inspection. It is a nasty muck. Yet, since it has been money, one gazes at it with grief, curiosity and even respect. The Washington people get hold of this financial filth developed from rags, which, after a circulation of years in greasy pockets and paper bags, passing from dirty hands to dirtier, from den to den, from diseased-infected clothing, to hospitals and dead men's clothes, until it returns to its birthplace, whence once it started so crisp and clean, laden with every variety of infection, disease, small-pox, yellow-fever, the plague, the itch, scrofula, consumption, battle, murder, sudden and slow death; they take this ground-up filth, mold it into statuettes, heads of Washington, Franklin, Jefferson, or into the semblance of bird and animal, and keep these as household deities, to be revered, since they are made of money.—Washington Cor. N. Y. Graphic.

The First Appearance of the Yankees in Santa Fe.

The first American who seems to have penetrated to New Mexico was James Pursley—an adventurous fur trader who found his way up the Arkansas, traveled extensively through the mountains of what is now Colorado, and finally worked his way down to Santa Fe, where he went to work as a carpenter, growing rich through high wages, but suffering always a feeling of restlessness. An occasional Frenchman had appeared, but Pursley (who, by the way, is credited with being the first intelligent man who discovered gold in the Rockies) was the sole citizen of the United States who was there to welcome the immortal Pike when, on that bleak March day in 1806, he unwittingly tramped into Santa Fe at the head of the Talarian band, halless, bootless, and trouserless through a year's campaigning on the plains and in the mountains. The Mexicans were greatly alarmed by this sudden realization of the proximity of the progressive and well armed Yankees, and their consternation resulted very unhappily for the few leaders of that conquering tide that finally should overthrow the effete rule of Spain in the New World; yet for a long time after Pike's expedition nothing occurred to frighten further the proud and indolent hidalgos.—Ernest Ingersoll, in Harper's for April.

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

—The telephone has been utilized as a religious auxiliary at Evansville, Ind. Through the aid of one of these remarkable instruments placed in churches, pulpits and counting with different houses in the city, several aged and infirm people were enabled to sit at home and listen to the prayers, the preaching, the choir, and the organ.

—A white man named Stanton, afflicted with leprosy, has been taken to a San Francisco hospital. He is an Englishman, and lived for ten years in the leprosy districts of India, came from thence to New York, and from there went to Cleveland, O., where he spent six years, and thence, in September last, to Sacramento.

—A physician at Arcata, Cal., had for a patient a girl for whom he entertained a high regard, as she was the daughter of an intimate friend. He could not cure her, however, and she died without the exact nature of the disease being discovered. Immediately on hearing her death he accused himself of a lack of medical skill, and committed suicide.

—The bullet which Col. Upham, of Meriden, formerly of the 16th Connecticut Regiment, received in his shoulder at the battle of Newbern, N. C., eighteen years ago, and which has caused him much trouble, worked its way out a few days since. Col. Upham has undergone several surgical operations for the removal of the bullet, but it was imbedded so deeply that it could not be found.

—William Scott resolved to kill his disobedient son Charlie, at Delaware, O., and took him home from a neighbor's house for that purpose. The boy rode along quietly, listening without reply to the father's arguments in the death penalty, and making no objection to the proposed means of murder—a bullet from a rifle. On alighting to open the gate, however, he drew an unexpected pistol, took careful aim at his father's head, and shot him dead.

—Shortly after the death of A. T. Stewart of New York City, Alexander Stewart of Cavenish, Vt., went to that city to contest the will made by deceased. After a long absence he returned home, having, as he averred, obtained a promise that he should have $100,000 in money, a farm and other property. He now claims that the terms of the contract have not been complied with, and on Tuesday last he attacked all the A. T. Stewart property in Woodstock Village, Vt., consisting of mills, boarding houses, tenement houses, and a residence.

—A San Diego, Cal., man caught a fine specimen of the California vulture, and gave it to the proprietor of a small menagerie to keep for him. In the menagerie was a pet coon, and the vulture was placed in a tree above the box in which the coon was kept. In the morning fur and feathers marked the spot, the vulture lay on his back, claws up, still in death, and the coon lay on his side, still alive, but in a very dilapidated condition. The expression of his face suggested the remark attributed to the parrot after a somewhat similar experience with a monkey.

—The rapidity with which journeys may now be made is strikingly exemplified in the quick transit of the French knight, Du Lepage. It was only a short time ago that he was presiding at the Canal Congress held in Paris, when he was heard of on the Isthmus of Panama. Next he is in New York, the recipient of lavish hospitality, and hardly is he heard before a Committee of Congress than the newspapers contain the statement that he has crossed the continent, and is the guest of San Francisco. Time flies, but so does the motor impelled by steam.

—London Truth says: "Mr. James B. Keene's thirteen race-horses are their way to Europe. The two old horses, American Spendthrift and Lord Murphy, have each of them cost about £3,000. Lord Murphy's career on the British turf will be watched with interest, as he is a purely American-bred horse. Spendthrift is the son of an imported American who is himself the son of West Australian. All the other horses are 2-year-olds, bred in Kentucky. When Mr. Keene's horses arrive at Newmarket there will be about 150 foreign horses in training there."

—In New York, the other day, a man was found staggering about the streets, and was "run in" at the Charles Street Station. He said he was suffering from old agony, his stomach, but was, as usual, about to be committed to the "drunk," when the surgeon arrived, and suggested an examination. He was found to be apparently all right, when the surgeon attempted to brush away a thread from his stomach, but found it would not brush. On further examination the thread was found to be attached to a needle which had disappeared inside, putting the man in terrible pain, but how the needle got there neither the man nor any one else knows.

—Miss Jennie Horn was just going to "run across the way" and stepped out bareheaded and with apron on. But instead of going across the way Miss Horn slipped round to the Moravian Church, which she entered by the back door. Her lover, William Collier, and Rev. Mr. Clewell were there before her. The knot was soon tied. Mrs. Jennie flew back home, and with a blush chasing her shadow among her dimples, begged the bride for dinner. This was in the town of Urbichville, O., where on the afternoon of the same day Henry Horn, the bride's brother, chased both bridegroom and preacher down the main street with a shot-gun. Mr. and Mrs. Collier left that afternoon on a bridal trip, Mrs. C. still being bare-headed.

—The other Sunday the Sabbath schools had a lesson which involved an explanation of the term hypocrite. In one of the infant schools a teacher labored very earnestly to give her class a correct idea of the word. One little girl said she always thought it was a great big animal, and she guessed she had seen one at a show. "Oh," the teacher said, "a hypocrite is a man who makes believe to be real good when he isn't. Sometimes a man will give a lot of money to a church just to make people think he is better than anybody else." "Well, my papa ain't a hypocrite," spoke up a little girl back in the corner of the seat, "for he only gives a penny every Sunday."

THINGS IN THE BOTTOM DRAWER.

There are whips, and tops, and pieces of strings.
There are shoes which no little foot wears;
There are bits of ribbon and broken rings;
And tresses of golden hair,
There are little dresses folded away
Out of the light of the sunny day.

There are dainty jackets that never are worn,
There are toys and models of ships;
There are books and pictures all faded and torn,
And marked by the fingertips
Of dimpled hands that have fallen to dust,
Yet I strive to think that the Lord is just.

But a feeling of bitterness fills my soul
Sometimes, when I try to pray,
That the rooster has spurned so many flowers
And taken mine away;
And I almost doubt if the Lord can know
That a mother's heart can love them so.

Then I think of the many weary ones
Who are waiting and watching to-night
For the slow return of fathering feet
That have strayed from the paths of right;
Who have darkened their lives by sin and
Whom the snares of the tempter have gathered
And held.

They wander far in distant climes,
They perish by fire and flood,
And their hands are black with the direct
Of sin.

That kindle the wrath of God,
Yet another's song has soothed them to rest,
Sins have led them to stumble upon her breast.

And then I think of my children three,
My babes that never grow old,
And as they are waiting and watching for me
In the city with the streets of gold,
Safe, safe from the cares and sorrows of youth,
From sorrow, and sin, and war,
And I think my God with falling tears
For the things in the bottom drawer.

HOME AND FARM.

FOR RUSTY STOVE-PIPE.—Rub with linseed oil, a little gum, a great deal of water, and a slow fire at first till it dries. Oil in the spring to prevent it from rusting.

TO COOL INFLAMMATION.—Refined chalk made into a thick plaster with one-third as much glycerine as water, and spread on the parts, will cool inflammation and reduce redness of the nose or face.

The decreasing crop of corn, resulting from continuous cropping, may be avoided for a time by a resort to fertilizers, but only artificial fertilizing adequate to the renovation of our extensive fields is impracticable; the restoration of fertility must come through the grasses.—Knapp.

Most of the improved breed of fowls are from warmer climates than this, and they have been bred so tenderly they will not bear neglect, but when rightly treated they return amply for all their expense. To buy fine fowls and then neglect them is a waste of money and cruelty to a beautiful bird.

In building or choosing a house to live in, take care that the kitchen is roomy, and has plenty of sunlight. A dark kitchen is an abomination, and a cramped kitchen increases the labor of housekeeping one-half. Let the kitchen be supplied with all modern conveniences, even if the parlor suffers in consequence.

CATTLE of prime quality, well bred and fully finished, are now in request for foreign markets, and at prices which are not, in comparison with those of last fall, so very unsatisfactory. Really excellent lots bring from five to six and one-half cents per pound at Chicago even now before the trade of the season has fairly begun.

A HARD wood floor, oiled with linseed oil, is the best floor for the kitchen. A floor of pine, unless straight-grained, is apt to "silver" and grow rough. It is impossible to oil such a floor with good results. If in the least knotty, the pitch prevents the oil from penetrating, and the floor takes on a grimy look. Oil-oil is sometimes used, and is preferable to a carpet, but is not so neat as a plain, hard wood floor, made of matched boards four inches wide and closely laid.—Housekeeper.

APPLE CHARLOTTE.—Butter a deep baking bowl, line it with thin slices of wheaten bread, moisten with cream and sugar cream; fill the bowl to within one inch of the top with sliced apples in layers, with beef marrow, sugar and grated lemon or orange peel; cover the apples with thin slices of bread soaked in cream; cover the bowl closely with an ordinary earthenware pie dish, in which place water to prevent its cracking; bake in a rather brisk oven from one hour to one hour and a half, according to the size of the Charlotte.

KIPPERS HEATING.—Put the herrings in a basin or pan over enough boiling water to cover them; take them out immediately and put them skin downward in a frying pan. For two herrings put half an ounce of butter and a tablespoonful of hot water into the pan, and baste them frequently with it for ten minutes, taking care the fire is not strong enough to boil the fish; indeed, the slower the cooking process the better. When the herrings are hot, spread a small piece of butter over the fish, sprinkle lightly with pepper, and serve very hot.

ALLIGATORS which have been brought from the mild climate of Florida to the more rigorous climate of the North generally die soon, no matter how good care is given them. A remarkable exception to this rule is a young physician of this city. This one was captured six years ago in Florida and has lived in this city without growing more than an inch and a half. It is now something less than three feet in length. Many times during its captivity it has gone without food for two or three months without apparent harm. When fed it voraciously, small fish and pieces of raw beef. One very cold night last month the alligator was left in a room without a fire. When the door was opened, the alligator was found lying on the floor, and the doctor went down to the room the following morning he was very indignant at finding that a window had been left open all night, and as the fire had gone out, the water in which his alligator lay was frozen. The animal was "as stiff as a poker," to use his own words, "and to all appearances dead." The doctor placed it in warm water, and afterward rubbed it with alcohol. The creature was then wrapped in a cloth and left by the stove, and after an hour or two a further attempt at resuscitation was made. The mouth was forced open and liquor in small quantities poured down from the discovery of the alligator's condition the doctor was reassured by noting that its heart again was in action. In a few hours more the alligator had entirely recovered.—N. Y. Tribune.

A Well-Garnished Follet.

No toilet is complete without SOZODONT. It combines all that is needed to keep the mouth and teeth healthy, and imparts a delicious fragrance to the breath. Its use should never be intermitted, as the mouth needs to be kept pure and clean, and by nothing better than SOZODONT can this be effected.

SPALDING'S GLUE is indispensable in the house, because there are always small breaks occurring which it will repair.

Coughs.

"Brown's Bronchial Troches" are used with advantage to alleviate Coughs, Sore Throat, Hoarseness and Bronchial Affections. For thirty years these Troches have been in use, with annually increasing favor. They are not new and untried, but having been tested by wide and constant use for nearly an entire generation, they have attained well-merited rank among the few staple remedies of the age.

"The Trochee"—"Brown's Bronchial Troches" are directly on the organs of the voice. They have an extraordinary effect in all disorders of the Throat and Larynx, restoring a healthy tone when relaxed, either from cold or over-exertion of the voice, and produce a clear and distinct enunciation. Speakers and singers find the Troches useful.

A Cough, COLD, CATARRH or Sore Throat requires immediate attention, as neglect often results in some incurable Lung Disease. "Brown's Bronchial Trochee" will almost invariably give relief. Imitations are offered for sale, many of which are injurious. The genuine "Brown's Bronchial Troches" are sold only in boxes.

BRIEFLY.

—Competitive drill of the Guards tonight.

—The social at the All Souls church last evening was fairly attended.

—John T. Raymond—"Col. Sellers," expects to appear in Janesville November 16.

—The Wisconsin Unitarian conference is to meet in this city November 9th, 10th and 12th.

—Work on Milwaukee street bridge was renewed to-day, and so was one portion of the old sidewalk.

—The paper scattered and posted by Tony Denier's company is the most attractive displayed here for a long time past.

—Major Randall, of the U. S. A., has consented to act as one of the judges at the competitive drill of the Guards tonight.

—Charlie Clark has sold his fast stepper to H. D. McKinney, who is thus enabled to make a matched team, which he will dispose of in Chicago.

—Frank Gibson, agent for Sprague's Georgia minsters, was in the city arranging for them to open their budget of fun here on the 24th inst.

—Appropriate services were held in Racine yesterday upon the arrival of the remains of Mrs. S. A. Fish who died in this city Monday and were taken there for interment.

—Den Thompson, alias Joshua Whitcomb, sends word that he cannot play in Janesville this season. This will be a disappointment to those who had their expectations up.

—The Old Fellows promise themselves and their friends an enjoyable dance at Apollo hall to-night. Anderson's band is to give the music, and there will be a good time no doubt.

—D. B. Wood, of Milton, was in the city to-day and paid his 38th annual subscription to the Weekly Gazette. Mr. Wood came to this county 40 years ago, and has resided at Milton ever since.

—The Merry Club had a joyous gathering at the Temple of Honor hall last evening, the first party of the season. A committee was appointed to arrange for a series of parties similar to those held last season.

—Nothing of interest has been done in the Mack case yet. Yesterday afternoon was taken up in the tiresome task of securing twelve jurymen who knew nothing about the murder, and had no opinions.

—The Northwestern railroad folk report freight business as larger than at any time in the history of the road. It is hard to get cars enough to meet the demand, and they have been obliged to build and borrow.

—A special train for the Monroe fair will leave Janesville to-morrow and Saturday mornings at 7:30 o'clock, and returning will leave Monroe at 6:30 p. m., arriving in Janesville at 8:30 p. m. Fare for the round trip $1.65.

—Miss Clara Reed, of this city, gave a musical entertainment at Darien, on Monday evening, in which she was assisted by several of her pupils in that place, and Miss Maud Craze and Miss Alice Childs, of this city.

—Within six days three old residents of Rock prairie have passed away, they being Ira Campbell, who died September 6, aged 82 years; Lemuel M. Good, rich, who died September 8, aged 76; and Nathaniel Bandy, who died September 11, aged 73 years. Their ages aggregate 231 years, and the total number of years which all of them spent in Wisconsin is sixty-four.

Best Accommodations for least money, Astor House, New York.

THE WEATHER.

REPORTED BY PRENTICE & EVENSON, DRUGGISTS.

The thermometer at 6 o'clock last evening stood at 60 degrees above; at 1 o'clock a. m. to-day at 53 degrees above; at 7 o'clock a. m. at 55 degrees above, and at 1 o'clock p. m. at 80 degrees above. Partly cloudy.

The indications to-day are for the upper lake region, lower barometer, stationary or higher temperature, southerly winds, partly cloudy weather, and occasional rain.

If old Nick were to lose his tail, where should he go to supply the difficulty? To a low grog shop; because there they "rot" his Bad Spirits. But if you suffer from low Spirits caused by Dyspepsia or Indigestion try Spring Blossom.

Sold by A. J. Roberts, and Graft & Sherer.

SOCIAL ENJOYMENT.

Last evening there was a joyous gathering of friends at the home of W. G. Wheelock, the party numbering about sixty. The occasion gave opportunity to these friends to greet Mrs. Lizzie Wheelock, of Boston, who is visiting here. The evening was passed in the usual social festivities of the parlor, and with the additional attractions of music and readings. Rev. T. P. Sawin read a selection, and Miss Minerva Guernsey read several. These readings were heartily enjoyed by the guests present. Some excellent music was also provided by a quartet consisting of Judge Pritchard, Mrs. Pritchard, Mrs. Moseley, and Seth Cushman, Warren Collins presiding at the organ. Mr. Collins also introduced his organette, and by the presentation of an animal show, with this instrument taking the part of a hand organ, created much mirth. Altogether the evening was most happily spent.

BUYING HORSES.

H. L. Bunker, has been for some time buying up horses in this county, for A. J. Heineman, of Mansfield, Ohio, has purchased fourteen which he will ship to-night, and they are a fine lot indeed. Among them is one team which weighs 3,550 pounds, and another team which nearly reaches that figure. They were to-day in Frederick's livery stable and attracted much attention and many words of praise. The lot as a whole is one of the best ever brought here for shipment. They are to be sent to Mansfield, O., and from there, in due time will find their way into the New York market. Mr. Bunker expects to visit Janesville again in the course of ten or fifteen days, and will then buy up more horses, and when he finds just the kind he wants, he pays good prices for them.

THE JACK CASE.

The Jurymen Chosen and the Case Fairly Opened.

Last evening the work of securing a jury in the Mack murder trial was completed, the following being those finally agreed upon:

George Williams, Jefferson.

R. Blanchard, Onpland.

A. C. Porter, Onpland.

August Sydow, town of Watertown.

C. Livingston, Farmington.

R. N. Potter, Farmington.

G. S. Caldwell, Concord.

Daniel Wells, Onpland.

A. Welter, Concord.

James McCan, Sullivan.

G. A. Griffin, Farmington.

J. D. Stevens, Jefferson.

The jurymen are all farmers and are a good looking set of men.

This morning Hon. John R. Bennett opened the case. William Smith, Esq., assists in the prosecution, owing to the ill health of District Attorney Sale.

The case seems to excite little attention at Jefferson, there being not over fifty persons in the court room this morning.

Mrs. Mack is accompanied by her eldest daughter, a girl aged about fourteen, and by her brother. She wears the full mourning costume, similar to that worn by her during her trial in Janesville.

GONE FOR LIFE.

The Walworth county murder case, which has created such a flurry, has had another scene added, and probably the closing one. Yesterday William Casperwig, who has confessed to murdering Jacob Blackwell, the husband of his step-daughter, appeared before Judge Wentworth and pleaded guilty. He was sentenced to State prison for life, the 24th of August of each year to be observed by him in solitary confinement, that being the date upon which the murder occurred.

PERSONAL.

—Mrs. George Barnes returned from her eastern trip yesterday.

—Mrs. S. M. Harris, of Chicago, is making a short visit to her brother, Harry Anderson.

—Hon. Pliny Norcross has gone to Iowa on legal business and will be absent ten days or so.

—Fred Griffin, of Chicago, and formerly of Janesville, arrived in the city this afternoon for a brief visit to friends.

—Ed. Lawrence, who has been visiting his parents here, Rev. G. W. Lawrence and wife, has returned to his home in Kansas.

—Rev. Jank L. Jones intends starting Saturday for Saratoga to attend the biennial session of the National Unitarian Conference.

—Among the delegates to the Baptist Convention at Deloit, were registered the following from this city: Rev. F. L. Chapell, Mrs. G. F. Griswold, Mrs. I. G. Colkins, Mrs. E. J. Treat, Miss M. G. Hoskins, J. B. Rowley, N. Denham, L. L. Robinson, Rev. W. H. Douglas, Mrs. George Scurliff, Mrs. Ira Millmore.

When you visit New York city don't forget the fact that the Grand Central Hotel has recently been thoroughly refitted and refurbished from top to bottom. Prices only $3.00 per day.

TONY DENIER.

There is promise of much sport for those who go to the Opera house on the evening of the 21st inst., for Tony Denier's Humpty Dumpty company is to show up there and then. As a sample of the many notices which the press has given, is the following from the Omaha Herald:

Tony Denier, in his last Humpty Dumpty troupe, has what may fairly be considered the peer of all its predecessors in that line, not excepting the company of the famous George Fox. A more delightful or thoroughly funny rendition of Humpty Dumpty would not be asked than that of Tony Denier's troupe. The Academy was crowded to overflowing last evening to witness the first performance by this company. The entire entertainment was one which could not fail to elicit applause and at the same time excite the sensibilities of every one present. Adams was a whole show in himself. Among other noticeable features was the ventriloquism of Phil Heath; the combined vocal and larp selections of Charles Diamond, and the velocipede performance of Venus and Adonis. The troupe will give another entertainment to-night, and all who are desirous of having a good laugh are advised to go.

HOW ABOUT ATLANTA?

A number of the Janesville Guards have expressed their willingness to go to Atlanta to join in the great doings there, and to pay all of their own expenses. There are others who cannot afford to give time and money both to such a trip, but who will go provided there is some help in the way of paying expenses. It is necessary that there should be sixteen men in uniform in order to take advantage of the special rates, which are only about $15 for the entire trip from here to Atlanta and return. It would be no small card if Janesville would send a company there, and it would reflect no less honor on the State, as they are the only company who have any probability of going. From Illinois there will be three companies, one from Chicago, another from Springfield, and a third from Rockford. At Rockford the citizens were so enthusiastic about having the Rifles take the trip that ten citizens subscribed $50 each, and others gave smaller amounts to defray expenses. One of our own citizens, who is enthusiastic about having Janesville and Wisconsin represented, has offered to pay the entire expenses of one man, but this seems an exception, there being a sort of loathsome feeling about the matter. The Guards hope however to succeed in their arrangements and go. They will probably give one or more entertainments, and if so the public will doubtless give them a liberal support. They have arranged also with the railroad companies so that those who are not members of the company, can make the trip and take advantage of the low rates by becoming honorary members of the company which costs but $5. The trip is a very cheap one indeed, and will prove a very interesting and enjoyable one. On the down trip there will be no stoppages, the train running through from Chicago in thirty-six hours, but returning will stop at many places of historic interest. It is to be hoped that the financial difficulties may be cleared away so that a goodly number of the company may attend, for it would give Janesville high rank for enterprise as well as for military honors, as the Guards are such as none need feel ashamed of when compared with any like company north or south.

WORK ON THE STREETS.

To the Editor.

In traveling through the various streets of our city, I find many water courses have been opened. Although the work seems to have been moderately well done, still there is cause for improvement. There seem to me to be three manifest causes of complaint:

1st. The debris shoveled out, is thrown close to the side of the road. This has a tendency to make the center of the street the lowest, instead of highest, as it would do, if it was put on the center of the street.

2d. The stuff so placed, is full of weeds, which, being on the side of the road, is little or not at all disturbed, in consequence of which, we have a luxuriant growth and crop of noisome weeds, which if placed in the middle of the road, would be trampled upon and killed.

3d. Why use pick and shovel to do in a day, what a team and scraper, would do in one-half, with ease? At the same time the dirt could be easily dumped in the middle of the street.

Whilst trying to economize why not blend the duties of street commissioner and overseer of the poor? Why pay as much as $100 or $500 a year, for what can be done, if combined, for $100? I am quite sure our present street commissioner, if so appointed, would make an efficient overseer of the poor, and this would not at all interfere with his other duties. I would suggest that the commissioner's salary be increased $100 a year, and that the authorities make the change.

CITIZEN.

BETHANY, ONTARIO.

GENTLEMEN—I feel it my duty to say a few words in regard to the great benefit I have received from the use of one of the wonders of the world, that is, Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. I was one of the greatest sufferers for about fifteen months with a disease of my ear similar to otitis, causing entire deafness. I tried everything that could be done through medical skill, but without relief. At last, last resort, I tried the Electric Oil, and in ten minutes found relief. I continued using it, and in a short time my ear was cured and hearing completely restored.

I have used this wonderful healer successfully in cases of inflammation of the lungs, sore throat, croup, and colds, and bruises, &c.; in fact it is our family medicine.

Yours truly,

Mrs. W. S. LANG.

MILTON JUNCTION.

—The Junction graded schools begin on the 27th inst.

—H. W. Coon, our enterprising furniture dealer, has erected an addition for a shop in the rear of his furniture store. This gives him a very fine room in which to exhibit his really fine stock of furniture.

—Rev. Mr. Gardner, left on Wednesday morning for Little Genesee, N. Y., to attend the general conference of the S. D. B. society, to be held at that place.

—Mr. Jno. S. Coon, and wife, who has been visiting friends here for some weeks past, left last week for their home in Madison county, N. Y.

—Mr. John A. Randolph, and wife, of Beaver City, Nebraska, were visiting in town last week. They have spent six years in Furnas county, Nebraska, and seem to think Nebraska has a bright future.

—Mr. Thorpe made Chicago a visit on Monday and Tuesday, to stock up for the fall trade.

—The frost on Sunday night was not severe enough to injure the tobacco that was standing, to any extent. There were but few pieces in this locality uncut, and the crop will all be in shed this week.

The crop of a whole is good, and is now secured with little damage save to a few.

—The committee on permanent organization which met to arrange for the next meeting of the Garfield and Arthur Club, have decided to hold the next meeting on Saturday night, September 25th, at College hall, in case suitable arrangements can be made for speaking on that evening. Further notice will be duly given in time for all.

Any disease of the Kidneys, Bladder, Urinary Organs, Nervous System, or case of Lame Back, that cannot be cured by DAY'S KIDNEY PAD, cannot be cured by any other treatment or remedy in existence.
